

1. Select three of the below statements that you find most compelling (true, interesting, similar to the way you believe) and explain why in your notebook.
2. Think about the three you find least compelling and be ready to discuss.

Money is evil.

Only money made by hard labor is worth having.

Most people who are very wealthy have usually inherited money.

Don't spend money.

There will always be enough.

There will never be enough.

Taking risks is bad.

There is only so much money in the world.

Money brings you happiness.

Not having money brings you happiness.

Money isn't important.

If you have a lot of money, you probably got it unethically.

People are poor because they are lazy.
